WOMEN IN INTERNATIONAL SECURITY

2018

Year In Review

The Year in Review: 2018

From the beginning, the core mission of Women In International Security (WIIS) has been to advance the professional development and leadership of women in the field of national and international security. WIIS continued to advance this mission in 2018 by supporting young women entering the field and by promoting women experts in the United States and around the globe.

WIIS also continued to expand its research and policy engagement initiatives on critical global security issues, including the nexus between gender and security, through policy roundtables and the publication of policy briefs.

In addition, WIIS developed partnerships with other institutions in the U.S. and abroad. WIIS also maintained its status as the financial agent for the U.S. Civil Society Working Group on Women, Peace and Security (US CSWG)

WIIS hosted and co-hosted over twenty events. Furthermore, WIIS Fellows participated in numerous conferences in the US and around the world. Highlights included invitations to take part in the Paris Peace Forum on October 11-13, 2018 and the Nobel Peace Prize Ceremony in Oslo on December 10, 2018. WIIS President, Chantal de Jonge Oudraat, was also invited to give a keynote address at the Women in National Security Conference organized by the National Security College, ANU, in Canberra, Australia on October 24-25, 2018.

In 2018, WIIS published 18 policy briefs and blogs. Additionally, Dr. de Jonge Oudraat contributed a Chapter to the 2019 Oxford Handbook on the Women, Peace and Security Agenda. Ellen Haring, Senior Fellow and Director of the CII Initiative, published work in the Army Times.

WIIS' presence on social media continues to grow. In 2018, WIIS had over 9,000 page likes on Facebook and our posts reached more than 41,000 people. Since June 2018, the WIIS Instagram gained over 100 followers. In addition, WIIS continues to tweet and share news with close to 5,000 followers on Twitter.

In 2018, WIIS also updated its logo and website. The new website includes a user-friendly interface for members only. WIIS encourages its members to fill out their profiles on the member-only part of the website. Complete profiles will broaden and strengthen the WIIS network by increasing content in the member database and helping WIIS HQ direct media demands. With your help, we can build a vibrant community where members can start online forums, contact each other directly for networking and mentorship opportunities in their area, and connect with other members around the globe when traveling.

All in, 2018 was another very successful year in which WIIS expanded its network and activities. WIIS could not have done this without you and the whole WIIS team thanks you for your continuing support!

WIIS PROGRAMS

- The Gender Scorecard Initiative

The Gender Scorecard Initiative is an on-going WIIS program. Through this initiative, WIIS measures and assesses how well institutions and programs mainstream gender.

On September 24, 2018, WIIS released the WIIS Gender Scorecard: Washington, DC Think Tanks 2018.

The scorecard reviewed 22 major Washington, DC think tanks working on foreign policy and national and international security issues along four main axes:

- (1) percentage of women leading think tanks;
- (2) percentage of women experts;
- (3) percentage of women in governing bodies;
- (4) percentage of think tanks with significant commitment to gender and/or women's programming.

The scorecard showed significant gender gaps at the leadership, expert, and governing board levels of Washington, DC think tanks.

In response to the findings of the think tank scorecard, WIIS will launch The Blue Book: A Roster of Women Experts ready to serve on governing boards of think tanks and other NGOs. This resource will go live in early 2019. Members will be able to apply through the WIIS website.

- The GPS Initiative

The Gender, Peace, and Security (GPS) Initiative was launched in 2017 and is designed to examine the gender dimensions of national and international security challenges. This venture furthermore seeks to and bridge existing divides between the traditional security community and the Women, Peace and Security community.

Under this initiative, WIIS launched the Next Generation Symposium in 2017. The 2017 Next Generation Fellows published several policy briefs and blogs in 2018. The Next Generation Symposium will reprise in 2019.

The book project launched under the GPS initiative examines the gender dimensions of important international security challenges. WIIS convened the second author workshop on April 16-17, 2018, in Washington, DC. The book brings together authors from across the world, genders, and disciplines.

Authors include: Edward Carr, Professor and Director of the International Development, Community, and Environment Department, Clark University, Sara Davies, Associate Professor and ARC Future

Fellow, Griffith University; Jane Freedman, Professor, University of Paris 8; Anne-Marie Goetz, Center for Global Affairs at New York University; Ellen Haring, Senior Fellow, Women In International Security; Rob Jenkins, Professor Department of Political Science, Hunter College; Jeanette Gaudry Haynie, Senior Fellow, Women In International Security; Jeni Klugman, Managing Director of the Georgetown Institute on Women, Peace and Security; Sari Kouvo, Senior Lecturer, University of Gothenburg; Kathleen Kuehnast, Director of Gender Policy and Strategy, United States Institute of Peace; Corey Levine, Human Rights Humanitarian Law Policy Expert; Tamara Nair, Research Fellow at Centre for Non-Traditional Security Studies, S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS) at Nanyang Technological University; and Jacqui True, Professor and Director at Monash Gender Peace and Security Centre, Monash University.

WIIS President, Chantal de Jonge Oudraat and Michael E. Brown, Professor of International Affairs and Political Science at the George Washington University Elliott School of International Affairs, are the editors of the book.

The April workshop benefited from the expertise and comments of Professors J. Anne Tickner, Emerita Professor in the School of International relations at the University of Southern California and Distinguished Scholar in Residence at the School of International Service at American University; Paul D. Williams, Professor at the GWU Elliott School of International Affairs, of International Affairs and Virginia Haufler, Professor of Political Science at the University of Maryland; Christopher Kojm, Professor of International Affairs at the GWU Elliott School of International Affairs and former Chairman of the National Intelligence Council; and Mona Lena Krook, Professor of Political Science at Rutgers University.

The Gender, Peace and Security Roundtable Series

With the generous support of the Embassy of Liechtenstein in Washington, DC, WIIS facilitates a series of expert roundtables to explore the gender dimensions of critical security challenges. These roundtables bring together a diverse group of experts and policymakers to advance gender considerations in security policy deliberations.

In March, WIIS was honored by the presence of the Foreign Minister of Liechtenstein, H.E. Aurelia Frick.

WIIS and the Embassy of Liechtenstein hosted four policy roundtables in 2018:

- People on the Move: The Gender Dimensions of Migration, Refugee Crises, and Human Trafficking, Washington, DC - March 2018
- Climate Change: The Gender Dimensions, Washington, DC - April 2018
- Youth, Peace and Security, Washington, DC - June 2018

Panelist Saskia Brechenmacher, Associate Fellow at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace speaks at the Women In Politics Roundtable

- Women In Politics, Washington, DC - November, 2018

More information about the roundtables are available on the past events page on the WIIS website.

- The Missing Peace Initiative

Created in 2013, the Missing Peace Initiative is a project of the United States Institute of Peace (USIP); the Human Rights Center at the University of California, Berkeley; the Peace Research Institute Oslo (PRIO); and WIIS. This project brings together expert scholars, policymakers, practitioners, and military and civil society actors to examine the issue of sexual violence in conflict and post-conflict settings, identify gaps in knowledge and reporting and explore how to increase the effectiveness of current responses to such violence.

THE SIXTH ANNUAL MISSING PEACE
YOUNG SCHOLARS NETWORK WORKSHOP
THE UNITED STATES INSTITUTE OF PEACE
WASHINGTON, D.C. JUNE 14, 2018

The Missing Peace Young Scholar Network is part of the Missing Peace Initiative and brings together a global community of young scholars examining issues related to sexual violence.

With the above partners, WIIS convened the sixth annual Missing Peace Young Scholar Workshop in Washington, DC from June 14-15, 2018. The theme was Ten Years Since UNSCR 1820: Translating Scholarship into Policy for the Prevention of Sexual Violence.

Find the Program here.

Members of the 6th Young Scholar Network Symposium authored "The Elusive Peace: Ending Sexual Violence during and after Conflict" (December, 2018). Additionally, Alicia Luedke, a member of the Young Scholar Network, contributed a blog on sexual violence in South Sudan.

In December, the founders of the Missing Peace Initiative met in Oslo at the occasion of the 2018 Nobel Peace Prize Ceremony. The Nobel Peace Prize Ceremony recognized Nobel Peace Laureates Nadia Murad and Denis Mukwege for their contributions to ending sexual violence as a weapon of war.

- The Combat Integration Initiative (CII)

To support the successful integration of women into the newly opened combat positions women in the armed forces, WIIS established the Combat Integration Initiative (CII) in 2013. The CII examines and monitors the integration of women into the military, focusing on five activities deemed necessary for effective implementation. These five areas include (1) Transparency of the implementation process; (2) Communication of policy changes; (3) Establishing gender-neutral occupational standards; (4) Providing training to leaders addressing military culture, and (5) Mentoring/Gender Advising.

Dr. Ellen Haring, Director of the CII Initiative and Senior Fellow, Professor Megan MacKenzie of the University of Sydney, and Ms. Antonieta Rico WIIS Fellow and Communications of the Service Women Action Network (SWAN), have continued research on the status of women's integration in combat positions. The team conducted a total of seventeen interviews and two informal focus group discussions in the U.S. and Europe.

On March 24, 2018, Dr. Haring and Ms. Rico facilitated a day long workshop in Killeen, Texas. The Trailblazers workshop provided infantry and armor women tools for successfully integrating into combat arms units.

Professor Mackenzie published "Will Letting Women Fight Fix Gender Inequality?" in Foreign Affairs (April 2018). Professor Mackenzie argues that enforcing gender equality "is not a silver bullet for reducing sexual violence, increasing the number of female leaders, or enhancing combat capacity for the U.S. military." Using the interviews and focus groups as her evidence, she advocates for institutional change to fully implement the integration of women in combat service roles. Lastly, she recommends that institutions listen to women to promote authentic gender equality.

Dr. Haring published "'Leaders First' is a Failed Policy" in the Army Times (August 2017). Dr. Haring argues that the "Leaders First" initiative presents a barrier to women who want to enter combat arms and causes male soldiers to be resentful of these women. She recommends that policy makers abandon the approach.

- The Women, Peace and Security Leadership Training Program

Dr. Ellen Haring and Dr. Chantal de Jonge Oudraat conducted a week-long gender audit training for United Arab Emirates government officials and business leaders in Dubai (UAE) in October 8-12, 2018. The training took place in partnership with TRENDS Training.

- The Mentoring and Professional Development Program

The Mentoring and Professional Development Program increases the professional opportunities of women. The program helps women navigate real and presumed obstacles in their careers through the provision of a skill-building series, resource center, and promotion of a transparent network of leaders. The program also organizes networking happy hours and other bonding activities for women to expand and solidify their networks in international security.

In 2018, the Program organized five events to connect and promote women in international security.

In June 2018, WIIS and the Women’s Foreign Policy Group (WFPG) signed a partnership agreement to collaborate on professional development and mentorship programs. As part of the new partnership

WIIS and the WFPG hosted on August 8 an event entitled “Taking the Next Step to Leadership: Advancing Your Career in International Security.” The event mixed traditional mentoring formats with an informal networking hour, a structured panel, and two intimate break-out sessions with the six panelists. The panelists ranged from mid-level to senior level positions in the public and private sector.

- U.S. Civil Society Working Group on Women, Peace and Security

The U.S. Civil Society Working Group on Women, Peace, and Security (CSWG) is a network of experts, NGOs, and academics with years of experience working on issues involving women, war, and peace. Inspired by and building on the international WPS agenda, the CSWG informs, promotes, facilitates, and monitors the meaningful implementation of the U.S. National Action Plan on WPS and the WPS Act adopted by the U.S. Congress in October 2017. WIIS is a member of the Group’s Executive Committee and fiscal agent of the group. For more on the U.S. CSWG, click here.

WIIS CHAPTERS AND AFFILIATES

WIIS has members in 47 countries and on six continents. WIIS members work in international organizations, government, NGOs, think tanks, universities, corporations, and media outlets around the world. Currently, WIIS has a network of ten U.S. chapters and twenty-six international affiliates. The WIIS Global Network keeps in touch through a monthly Global Call.

In 2018, WIIS introduced new affiliates in Port-au-Prince Haiti, and Paris, France. WIIS also re-introduced U.S. chapters at the Middlebury Institute and the University of Notre Dame.

Highlights from the WIIS Global Network:

- WIIS Australia

After a brief hiatus, WIIS Australia resumed activity under Dr. Elizabeth Buchanan in October 2018.

In Sydney, Dr. de Jonge Oudraat presented on WIIS’ work to advance the roles of women in international security. On October 26, she participated in a WIIS-Australia panel co-hosted by Professor

Bates Gill of Macquarie University. The panel also featured Susan Harris Rimmer, Associate Professor of Griffith University and Sue Thompson, Senior Lecturer at the National Security College, the Australian National University. The women shared their experiences in the international security field.

- WIIS Austria

WIIS Austria President, Jessica Grün, hosted close to ten events, including several networking and professional development events, as well substantive policy roundtables.

Notable events:

- Migration and Integration in Germany and Austria, Vienna, Austria - December 10, 2018
- Sexual Violence in Conflict with Justice Winter, Vienna, Austria - November 28, 2018

- WIIS Brussels

For two decades, WIIS Brussels has promoted leadership training, mentoring, and networking activities on current policy challenges. WIIS Brussels benefits from the presence of the EU institutions and NATO as well as a very high concentration of diplomatic representations, international organizations and other influential stakeholders, putting it at the center of key policy discussions on international relations, security and defense.

Under the leadership of Corinna Horst, WIIS Brussels hosted numerous events including policy debates on critical topics in international security, mentoring, and professional development programs. Most notably, WIIS Brussels helped organize NATO Engages: The Brussels Summit Dialogue in July 2018.

- WIIS Germany – (WIIS.de)

In late 2017, Dr. Armgard Von Reden was elected as the new Chairwoman of WIIS.de after the tragic passing of Dr. Sylke Tempel. Dr. Tempel was honored at the Munich Security Conference in February 2018 as well as at the 15th anniversary conference.

Dr. Armgard Von Reden at the 15-year anniversary conference Photograph taken by Henning Schacht

WIIS.de celebrated its fifteenth anniversary with a high-level international conference entitled Is The Future Democratic? Democracy, Security, Technology.

- WIIS Canada

In 2018, Caroline LePrince was elected as the Executive Director of WIIS Canada. Ms. LePrince previously served on the Board of WIIS-Canada and co-organized the 2017 WIIS Canada Annual Workshop and Tenth Anniversary of WIIS Canada.

In 2018, WIIS Canada increased its membership base across the country and held stimulating events on peace and security. WIIS Canada will hold its 12th Annual Workshop in Toronto, Ontario in the late spring of 2019.

• WIIS France

Under the leadership of Johanna Moehring, WIIS France was created during the spring of 2018.. WIIS France is committed to building a community of experts from all generations and with diverse experiences to promote the representation of women in the field of security and defense in France. WIIS France organized a panel entitled Women, Actresses of Peace? at the AEGES Conference in Lille France on December 6-7 2018. An official launch event for WIIS France is planned for February 2019.

• WIIS Italy

WIIS Italy was created in April 2016 and is managed by a group of volunteers who have set out to promote the mission of WIIS through events, debates and seminars on issues related to women and international peace and security. WIIS President Irene Fellin is also spearheading the Women Mediators Network in the Mediterranean, a project funded by the Italian Foreign Ministry.

• WIIS India (WISCOMP)

Established in 1999, WISCOMP has been a pioneer in initiating the discourse on women, peace, and security in South Asia. This affiliate was at the forefront of engaging with these issues well before they were articulated in UN Security Council Resolution 1325 in October 2000. WISCOMP is an initiative of the Foundation for Universal Responsibility, which was established with funds from the Nobel Peace Prize awarded to His Holiness The Dalai Lama in 1989.

WISCOMP draws on innovative and experiential pedagogies that synergize research, training, and practice. They use these pedagogies to build linkages between individuals who work in the fields of education, gender studies, peacebuilding, public policy, law, and the creative arts.

In 2018, WIISCOMP conducted close to twenty workshops, trainings, and policy events. The affiliate also published “(Re)Storying Kashmir: Exploring possibilities for Constructive Partnerships” by Meenakshi Gopinath, Seema Kakran and Shilpi Shabdit.

- WIIS Poland

WIIS Poland was established in November during the 2017 Warsaw Security Forum. WIIS Poland is housed within the Casimir Pulaski Foundation, an independent and a-political think tank that focuses on issues across foreign policy and international security. WIIS Poland hosted a networking breakfast for women in international security at the 2018 Warsaw Security Forum.

- WIIS Spain (SWISS)

Dr. Marian Caracuel is the founding Director of SWISS. Dr. Caracuel works at the Counsellor Area of the Cabinet of the General Secretariat for Defense Policy (Ministry of Defense) and is the founder of both the Association of Spanish Graduates in Security and Defense Issues (ADESyD) and SWISS. SWISS is housed under the ADESyD. Dr. Caracuel was appointed by an absolute majority of the Senate as a member of the Observatory of Military Life, which is closely linked with the Spanish Parliament. SWISS also participated in the meeting of the NATO Panel on Women, Peace and Security in Brussels October 9-10, 2018.
